Sub:- Land Reforms - Acceptance of Mutation entries and oral evidence by Tribunals in cases of succession which are uncontroversial and uncontested - Instructions - Reg.

A point has been raised whether the Taluka Land Tribunals can accept in evidence mutation entries and oral evidence adduced in cases of succession which are uncontroversial and uncontested. There is no objection to doing so. However, in contested cases, where there is a doubt about the succession or the claim regarding succession is contested, the tribunals will be well advised to insist on production by the claimant of a succession certificate issued by competent Civil Courts.
